"It Might Have Been." Maud Muller on a summer's day, Raked the meadow, sweet with hay. Beneath her torn hat glowed the wealth Of simple beauty and rustic health. Singing, she wrought, and her merry gles The mock-bird echoed from his tree. But, when she glanced in the far-off town, White from its hill slepe looking down. The sweet song died, and a vague unrest And a nameless longing filled her breast. A wish that she hardly dared to own, For something better than she had known. The Judge rode alowly dewn the lane, Smoothing his horse's chest nut mane. He drew his bridle in the shade Of the apple trees, to great the maid. And ask a draught from the spring that flowed Through the meadow across the road. She stooped where the cool spring bubbled up, And filled for him her small tin cup. And blushed as she gave it looking down On her feet so bare, and her tattered gown. "Thanks!" said the Judge, a "sweeter draught From a fairer hand was never quaffed." He spoke of the grass and flowers and trees, Of the singing birds and the humming bees, Then talked of the having, and wonder, whether The cloud in the west would bring foul weather. And Maud forgot her brier-torn gown, And her graceful aukles, bare and brown; And listened, while a pleased surprise Looked from her long lashed hazel eyes. At inst, like one who fairer delay Seeks a vain excuse he rode away. Maud Miller looked and sighed: "Ah me! That I the Judge's bride might be! "He would dress me up in his silks so fine; And praise and toast me at his wine. "My father should wear a broadcloth coat. My brother should sail a painted boat. "I'd dress my mother so grand and gay, And the baby should have a new toy each day. "And I'd feed the hungry and clothe the poor,"
And all should bless me who left our door." The Judge looked back as he climbed the hill, And saw Maud Muller standing still. "A form more fair, a face more sweat, Ne'er hath it been my lot to meet; "And her modest answer and her graceful air, Show her wise and good as she is fair. "Would she were mine, and I to-day, Like her a harvests of hay; No doubtful balance of rights and wrongs. Nor weary lawyers with heavy tongues. "But low of cattle and song of birds. And health and quiet and loving words." But he thought of his sister proud and cold, And his mother, vain of her rank and gold. So, closing his heart, the Judge rode on, And Maud was left in the field alone. But the lawyers smile I that afternoon. When he hummed in court an old love tone: And the young girl mused beside the well, Till the rain on the unraked clover fell. He wedded a wife of richest dower, Who lived for passion as he for power, Yet oft, in his marble hearth's bright glow, He watched a picture come and go: And sweet Maud Miller's hazel eyes Looked out in their innocent surprise. Oft when the wine in his glass was red, He longed for the way-side well instead; And closed his eyes on his garnished rooms, To dream of meadows and clover-blooms. And the proud man sighed, with a secret pain: "Ah, that I were free again! "Free as when I rode that day, Where the barefooted maiden raked her hay." She wedded a man unlearned and poor, And many children played around her door. But care and sorrow, and child birth pain, Left their traces on heart and brain. And oft, when the summer sun shone hot On the new mown hay in the meadow lot. And she heard the little spring brook fall Over the roadside through the wall, In the shade of the apple tree again She saw a rider draw his rein, And, gazing down with timid grace, She felt his pleased eyes read her face. Sometimes her narrow kitchen walls Stretched away into stately halls; The weary wheel to a spinnet turned, The tallow candle an astral burned; And for him who sat at the chimney lug, Dosing and grumbling o'er pipe and mng, A manly form at her side she saw, And joy was duty and love was law. Then she took up her burden of life again, Say only, "It might have been." Alas for maiden, alse for judge, For rich repiner and household drudgel God pity them, both! and pity us all, Who vainly the dreams of youth recall. For all sad words of tongue or pen, The saddest are these: "It might have been!" Ah, well! for us all some sweet home lies

FLUX. STRICKLAND'S Anti-Cholera Mixture.

Is a composition of astringents, absorbents, stimulants and carminatives, which every physician acknowledges is the only preparation that will effect a permanent cure of Diarrhea and Dysentery. This Anti-Cholera Mixture is now in use in several of our army hospitals where it gives the greatest satisfaction. It has saved the lives of thousands of our soldiers and crizens, and we will guarantee it to be the best remedy in the world for Diarrheen and Dysentery. Mr. Woods, of Covington, Ky., will be most happy to satisfy any one as to the viriue of Strickland's Anti-Chole a Mixture; in fact we have a great number of testimonials from patients who have been cured after being pronounced incurable by their physicians, some after taking only one bottle of Strickland's Anti-Cholera Mixture. If you suffer with Diarrhoea and Dysentery try one bettle.

SOLDIERS!

You ought not to be without such a valuable medicine. The Cincinnati National Union, of April 24th, says; that thousands of our soldiers have been saved by the use of Strickland's Anti-Cholera Mixture. DR. JOHN BULL'S COMPOUND CEDRON BITTERS:

The Latest and Most Important Discovery of the Ninetee, ath Century.

No MAN'S NAME IS MORE INTIMATELY connected with the history of the Materia Medica of the United States, or more favorably known as a pioneer in medical discovery, than that of JOHN BULL, of Louisville, Ky. His inimitable preparation of Satsaparilla has long stood at the head of the various compounds of that valuable drug. His compound Pedoral of the Various compounds of that valuable drug. His compound Pedoral of Wild Cherry has become a household word throughout the West and South; and his Worm Lozenges, in less than a year after their introduction, attained a reputation as widespread as the continent of North America. But the crown-ing glory of his life remains to be attained in his latest discovery, or rather combination, for he loes not claim to have been the discoverer of CEDRON, which is the basis of the Bitters now offered to the public. That honor belongs to the native inhabitants of Central America, to whom its virtues have been known for m re than two hundred years. Armed with it, the Indian bids defance to the most deadly malaria, and handles without fear the most venomous serpents. It is a belief with them that while there is breath left in the body the Cedron is potent to cure, no mat-tet what the disease may be.

While Dr. Bull is not prepared to indorse this extravagant pretension, he is nevertheless satis-fied from a thorough examination of the evidence relating to its virtues, that, as a remedy and preventive for all diseases arisin, from exposure either to changes of weather and elimate or to the miasmatic influences, it stands without a rival, and justly deserves the reputation it has so long enjoyed in Central America and the West Indies. In and its attendant train of symptoms, it acts that can for a moment bear a comparison with it in this disease.

A full account of this wonderful plant may be found in the eleventh edition of the U. S. Dis-pensatory, pages 1387 and 1388. A series of experiments, in which Dr. Bull has been for years engaged, has just been brought to a successful termination, and he is now enabled to offer to the public a combination of Cedron with other improved tonics, the whole preserved in the best quality of copper-distilled Bourbon whisky, which he is confident has no equal in the world.

He might furnish a volume of certificates, but the public have long since learned to estimate such things at their true value. The safest plan is for every one to test for I imself the virtues of a new medicine. Give the one trial, and you will never use any others.

It is not necessary to publish a long list of diseases for which the Cedron Bitters are a specific.
In all diseases of the STOMACH, BOWELS, KIDNEYS, or LIVER;

In all affections of the BRAIN depending up-on derangement of the Stomach or Bowels; In GOUT, RHEUMATISM & NEURALGIA; And in FEVER AND AGUE;
It is destined to supersede all other remedies.
It inot only cures all these diseases but it pre-
